PUBLIC SPEAKING INFO

Although many people cite a fear of public speaking as an activity that produces intense anxiety, that's never been the case for Janice Person, CEO and founder of JPlovesCOTTON, LLC. She's been speaking to groups since she found her footing through student government campaigns in junior high school and it has taken her to some of the world's most famous stages including South by Southwest (SXSW) in Austin and New York's 92nd Street Y.

Whether on a stage in front of hundreds in a major metropolitan area or a small gathering in a town few people have heard of, every opportunity to speak is something Janice approaches with a combination of enthusiasm and seriousness. It is a responsibility and an opportunity to learn more about the audience as she shares ideas.

Doing a range of keynotes, panels and training events over the past decade, Janice has prompting thought and action among men, women and youth.

Janice uses vivid storytelling techniques to help groups discover a sense of wonder, embrace new ideas, conquer fear and more. Providing a starting point for a conference or a single voice at a dinner event, you want someone who can understand your audience & move them. Years of experience with a range of topics and audiences can be applied to preparation with organizers to insure that the audience can be met where they are and moved in ways that help organizers achieve the specified goals.
